Audiophile use, and Casual Listening use are two entirely different things and most Bose stuff is designed for the latter. For casual listening, I generally want the music to FEEL loud and full, but I still want to hear stuff going on around me. I want to be able to hold a conversation without having to turn down the music. Bose accomplishes this with an uneven EQ curve. The sizzle is hyped, the mids are DIPPED reduce clutter in the range of human voices, and the bass is hyped beyond all belief for such small speakers, by using resonances that make it a little vague about the pitch information. For background music when I have a few friends over this is exactly what I want, and this thing sounds truly amazing. The music is crisp and full and it gets surprisingly loud without sounding awful. But when I put on my audiophile hat, I shut the darn thing off because it was not intended for that. And that is OK! My audiophile gear RULES for when I am sitting alone losing myself in the music, and I can run my instruments through it and have them sound great. But it fills up the entire audio spectrum and if anyone wants to talk to me I have to turn it down to half the level of the Bose. Think about what you WANT, and if what you want is casual listening use, then I think that this is a remarkably great choice. I looked again and it clearly said remote in the box. The unit does not have a radio, which is not a deal breaker. The sound quality is Great and it seems to work well, I just cant control it without the remote. Dont buy from these guys as they seem to be foreign and not very upstanding or honest.

I know most people listen to music on their phones, but I am still using ipod, and the Bose dock had such great sound. I was very glad, but somewhat leery, to find that I could order one from Amazon, through a 2nd party, but it was a used one. I held my breath, and placed the order. It arrived in even shorter time than we thought, and it is WONDERFUL!!! It sounds brand new. I dont remember who the seller was, but they really came through, and I highly recommend them. I was able to buy this great used system and, although its a little different from my original, I figured it out and am so happy. I love my music. It takes me out of this world and makes me enjoy my life. Thank you so much for taking care of this product so that I can enjoy it. And I wouldnt be able to afford a new Bose. This is absolutely wonderful. The appearance is good, the remote was sealed in plastic and works great, and the sound is phenomenal. I never knew what I was missing in speakers before, and I couldnt be more pleased. One of the biggest annoyances was how incredibly sensitive the audio connection was and how poorly it would affect the sound if you barely wiggled the cable. Those of us who used it would have to wiggle the cable around to just the right position for the sound to play, and if you touched it after that, it would go out again. I had the exact same issue with a brand new cable, so I know its not a bad cable issue. Last week and today no matter how much I wiggled the cable every which way, I could not get it to play any sound. RIP speaker. Ugh. I no longer have a stereo or other audio device and use this with my iPod and iPhone for all my audio needs and charging of said devises. Great sound quality compared to similar systems. I use it all the time. The sound quality of the Series III seems even better than the series II, the detail is more precise, the sound seems even more real. Other improvement is the ac adapter, which seems better made and the connectors fit together better.

You either need to use the sound buttons on the iPhone or the remote. My remotes for my previous models haven't lasted well, so I was a bit disappointed with this, although it makes the model look a little sleeker. I now have one upstairs and one downstairs in my house and am happy. I use an adaptor with my Series II so that I can use either my old iPod with it without the converter adaptor or my new iPhones with the adaptor. You can get a similar adaptor for this to be able to use older models on it, but haven't tried it yet. Without doubt the best player I have ever owned. Late delivery almost certainly due to our present health problems, but the seller did their utmost to keep me informed of how things were going. Definitely worth 5 stars, I only wish I could award more. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Great seller thank you! Sorry, we failed to record your vote. A new lease of life for my iPod classic. Hurrah! Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again It was good to have the colour choice also, although my daughter is now determined to have this now that I've moved to a Samsung phone and can no longer use this as a charging station. I can still use the dock with an additional cable, but as the SoundDock only has an lightning connector I can no longer use it to charge my device. Sorry, we failed to record your vote.
